HOW TO MAKE MONEY IN THE MARIJUANA STOCK MARKET COMEY, SESSIONS AND RUSSIA

It is clear to me that the most positive single event for the cannabis industry would be if Jeff Sessions is forced to resign, or asked to resign.

There seems little doubt that Sessions lied in testimony.

The President was upset that Sessions removed himself from the Russia matters.

New outlets have speculated that if WH key people are shaken up, Sessions might be forced out.

It has surprised me that Sessions was not previously put on the carpet for lying and that perhaps he got away with his testimony.

However, with the Russia hacking matters coming front and center, it will be difficult for him to wiggle out of his lies. It appears that the President will have a difficult decision regarding Sessions.

On one hand it seems like he genuinely likes Sessions.

Sessions was one of the President' early supporters.

However, in today's politics, it appears that the roosters might come home to crow regarding Session's integrity.

All of this leads to potentially good news for the cannabis industry.

This industry could not have a more hostile Federal attorney going after all that is cannabis.

It should be interesting to watch Sessions' progress. If he leaves, look for a short rally in cannabis stocks.
