A Negative N.Y. Post Article.

- A highly negative N.Y. Post article was published.
- The bottom line is that the article alleged certain visible marijuana stocks are or will be investigated by the SEC.
- It appears that the article is false.
- Companies mentioned are: PHOT, DIGP, GBLX and VAPE.
- First, if the enforcement division of the SEC demands documents from an issuing company, in all probability that company will be advised to announce such SEC communication.
- Second, no reporter would ever know if such demand was issued by the SEC without inside information.
- Third, the reporter who wrote this story may himself (herself), be subject to legal action as is the N.Y. Post.
- It will be interesting to see whether the named companies file an action against the NY Post.
