HOW TO MAKE MONEY IN THE MARIJUANA STOCK MARKET CLINTON AND SCHEDULE 1 AND 2

The 2016 primaries are interesting and captivating.

Insiders in the DNC know that if Sanders wins the nomination, he would lose 45 states.

There is genuine concern regarding Clinton's problems with the FBI and her email problems.

The Clinton political machine is powerful.

She has serious problems. A large percentage of the population simply does not like her.

Her support appears to come from the fact that voters believe she would be a strong leader.

Unless the FBI nails her, it is likely that she will become the Democratic Presidential candidate.

This week she stated her support for a re-scheduling from 1 to 2.

While President Obama has taken a hands off position on marijuana re-scheduling up to this election, it is highly doubtful that this issue will be addressed during 2016.

A reschedule to 2 would be a game changer for the cannabis industry and the cannabis stock market.

While Clinton states that she should be for a re-schedule to 2, her position would be to leave it up to the states as I understand it. If Clinton wins the 2016 election, I would look for mid 2017 before the re-scheduling issue would be addressed.

In the meanwhile, should California go recreational, it will put a lot of pressure on the Federal government and Clinton to re-schedule. As a practical matter, until November 2016, I see a continued very weak cannabis stock market.
